NEW SYSTEM DESIGNED TO PRO-MOTE REGULAR SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

A plan designed to lessen tardine and to promote a sense of the responsibility of the individual toward his fellow pupils is now being tried n the public schools. The same plan has been used with marked success elsewhere in Nevada, and although the third school month is as yet only half gone, some gratifying results are already apparent. The scheme is this: EYES TESTED-GLASSES FITTED At the end of every four weeks each with Drs. Cunningham and Leacher adds together the number of cases of tardiness and unexcused absences that have occurred among her pupils during the month and from these figures finds the percentage of promptness and attendance. The pupils in any room that has had an average of 97 per cent will be granted a half-holiday on the following

The children at once showed a great interest in the plan and a realthy rivalry between rooms sprung up. It is hoped that one of the chief benefits will be the development in the pupils of a sense of duty toward Q their classmates when they realize that one pupil can, by carelessness or truancy, spoil the chances of a whole grade for securing a half-holiday. In most cases it is habitual tardiness o that keeps the average down. A large part of it is needless. Thus far this fall there has been no case of truancy reported from any room to the superintendent. Under this new plan each scholar is subject to the force of public sentiment on the part of the other pupils for coming late.

Absences for which parents send written excuses do not count against the room in the percentage. Unexcused absences are counted as truaney. While some cases of tardiness are in no way the fault of the scholar, the majority are the result of loltering on the way to school, and so all tardiness will be counted alike against the percentage. It has been thought best, for the present, not to include the kindergarten or high school in the plan.

If you bought nothing but advertised goods during the next twelve chicken through them. All our soups months, you'd reduce the cost and are made full strength and delicious raise the standard of living-surpris-
